Hold Well, Despite the Heavy Covering Movement.

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—A firm opening and a steady first hour testified to a continuation of the covering movement in stocks during the early trading this morning. Thereafter a few individual issues were subjected to heavy pressure and run down rather sharply, a maneuyer the intent of which is fairly obvious. The list as a whole held well, however, fractional gains predominating at the close. In bonds the feature was a continuation of the rally in the foreign is tion of the rally in the foreign issues, but speculative domestic descriptions showed a better tone. Call money, after opening at 5 per cent, was reduced by gradual stages to 4 per cent, the latter rate coming toward the close of the last hour.

Declaration of the regular seminanual dividend on Baldwin Locomotive early in the day was of no particular market interest except the stock. But even those generally refused to be stampeded into any extensive covering operations by the prospect of having to pay the $3.50 dividend early in December. With $50,000,000 of future business on the company's books and inquiries for locomotives still being made on a considerable scale Baldwin stockholders will have something to look forward to when the iff for the next semi-annual disbursement comes round.

Moon Motors is one of the cheap dividend payers which are beginning to attract attention from speculators who have wearled of carrying of the rissues through the decline. The stock recovered nearly 2 points this morning from Wednesday's low of 14%. The present dividend rate is $1 a share annually, but earnings during 1922 have been at a rate which encourages hopes of an extra distribution in the near future and possible increase in the regular rate. DETROIT, Mich., Nov. 16.—Arraignment in Traffic Court for speeding, frequently regarded as a joke, has suddenly taken on a deeper and more shastly significance here in the ligh of the drastic steps taken by Judge Charles L. Bartiett to curb the speeding practice.

LAFAYETTE. Ind., Nov. 1'.—Discusses of the heart and lungs will be detected at an early stage, thanks to the aid of the radio observer.

This new field of wireless has been opened up through the invention of a device for magnifying heart beats by Prof. R. B Abbott, of the physics department of Purdue University here. A microphone type of stethoscope is combined with a radio loud speaker and with a radio loud speaker and vacuum tube receiver so that the heart beats of a person could be heard throughout the largest auditorium of the university.
